College upper-echelons give personal views to G

By Lois Finley

During the fall semester, 1979, the G ran a series of questions addressed to the members of the Grossmont College and their answers.

As a follow-up, questionnaires were recently submitted to a group of administrators, faculty and classified representatives of the college. Some of the questions were the same as those asked the board members.

Questionnaires were sent to Erv Metzgar, president; Mrs. Trudy Hill, vice president for instructional services, and Dr. Sam Ciccatti, vice president for student services, all of the administration.

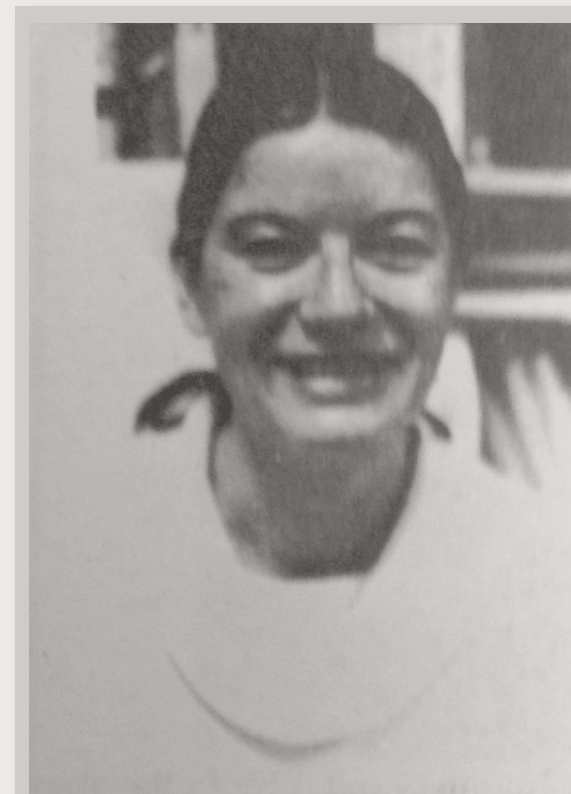

Faculty members who participated in the project were Dr. Curt Stevens, president of the faculty senate; Paul Wheatcroft, president of the Grossmont College Teachers Association (CTA); and Jim Peters, newly-elected president of the Grossmont College Federation of Teachers (GCFT).

Mrs. Julie Kuhl, president of the California School Employees Association (CSEA), submitted answers for the classified organization.

(The CTA answers were a joint project of Wheatcroft and Ruth Anderson, CTA vice president.)

The first three questions and answers, in alphabetical order, follow and the others will be run next week.

Mr. Metzgar was out of town and his answers were not available this issue of the paper, but will be included in next week's edition.
