FEATURED DEPARTMENT – Gabrielle Gosselin CALWORKS

CalWorks is a program that helps student parents to enroll in school and get financial assistance as well as childcare. There are about 500 students and are made up of students of color, First Generation College, domestic violence victims, immigrants and refugees.

Our goal with this program is to have parents end the cycle of poverty. CalWorks helps students to achieve their goals not only academics, but with time management, resources and community.

The statistics after they get out of CalWorks is that they are able to support themselves and their families and do not go back on the system. These are not the traditional students that come through the system. Many are dealing with many problems outside of their academic goals and yet still are making it to class. Thirty percent of our students are single moms, many have language limitations, and many feel they do not belong in college. These student enrich our campus with all the diversity they bring.

Next Spotlight Zoe Close Philosophy/Religious Studies

Next Regular CCC meeting will be September 25, 2017

May 22, 2017 there will be a compressed calendar meeting at 11am tentatively in Griffin Gate. Chairs and Coordinators are encouraged to attend.

CANVAS UPDATE – Janet Gelb

Canvas is here and we are training faculty as fast as we can as the district wide working group has decided that January 29 will be the last day we will be using Blackboard. Blackboard will be here till the end of spring, but you must request a container to maintain your information.

We have already trained 100 faculty and they will be taking over the training and teaching other faculty. There will be three dates in the summer for training.

- June 12 with Sarah Martin
- July 10 Jim Hudson
- July 17 Michael Stewart

After the week of finals on days June 6th, 7th, and 8th we will be doing a 4-hour workshop from 9am-1pm for faculty who only use Blackboard/Canvas as a repository for content, syllabus and grades. They will be given a template and will come out with a ready class in Canvas. Please sign up as quickly as possible and the classes are filling up fast.

There are many mentors that are also training their own departments

Budget Nuts and Bolts – Lorenze Laegaspi

Lorenze talked about the budget cycle in California which starts in January when the Governor passes on his budget and allocations based on his estimates of revenues. This gives us a glance as what it means for our budgets and what it means locally. Due to the debts in the state and the need to put into reserves, we are not getting as much money that there is in the state.

There is a recession, and we do not know how low it will go, but the governor is working on the reserves for that time.

We get 11% from the government. This is an important time between May and when the actual budget is done in July. This is the time advocacy work is done.

Some concerns are that we have been growing for 6 years nothing will change this budget cycle 17-18, but going forward we will see a little dip in 18-19.

Locally we have a district allocation model. There is a task force that looks at how we budget in the district. This is so that each cycle we are allocating to the plans and programs that achieve our goals and targets. There is a budget task force that is on our radar, so anyone that might want to be on that task force please let your div rep know. All of these budget talks will be coming as July approaches.

SSSP – Courtney Williams

The Student Success and Support Program Plan is in its integration plan currently. It is due in December.

The plan includes Orientation online or in person, statewide common assessment, which is still being developed, educational plans and follow up.

These services are to get the students oriented with our campus and how it runs, an assessment so they are not placed in too easy or too hard courses and our educational plans and follow up is based on what students have declared as their major or if undecided a follow up to change their plans as needed. The educational plans give them a roadmap to their goals. The state is giving funding for this program and the success of this plan is performance is graded for that funding. Students can work with counselors and faculty to follow up on their courses what they have and what they know.
